CALLAWASSIE ISLAND APPOINTS NEW GOLF COURSE SUPERINTENDENT

Okatie, SC – After serving as the Golf Course Superintendent’s Assistant for three years, Billy Bagwell has been named Callawassie Island’s new Golf Course Superintendent. A native South Carolinian, Billy attended Clemson University where he received a Bachelor of Science in Turfgrass. During his tenure at Clemson, he worked for The Walker Course, the University Golf Course, as well as the Clemson University Athletic Department. He completed two internships while at Clemson. First, working at Long Cove Club, a top 100 club located on Hilton Head Island and worked for Frontier Construction as an Assistant Project Manager. While in that position, Billy helped manage the complete renovation of The River Course on Kiawah Island, SC. He also helped manage the complete renovation of the golf course at Callawassie Island while serving as Assistant.

Callawassie Island is an 880-acre development with almost 500 homes. While Callawassie architectural styles vary from classic Lowcountry to stylish contemporary, each unique residence reflects a distinctive variation on regional motifs. Island amenities, including golf, tennis and a wide array of organized interest groups, complement the extraordinary natural surroundings. Callawassie’s natural attractions include 11 miles of coastline, ancient live oaks, fertile salt marshes and an abundant population of Lowcountry wildlife.
